WSCGA Members Elect Head In Balloting Today

Ferenbaugh, Jones, Seay Nominated For President

Elections will be held today from 4:00 to 6:00 p. m. in the women's dormitories for six offices in Women Students' Cooperative Government.

Nominations from the floor were made at the WSCGA meeting Monday night, March 4, in addition to nominations by the Senior Nominating Committee. Dorothy Ferenbaugh, Patricia Jones, and Susie Seay were nominated from the floor for the position of president of the Executive Council. Norma Fehse was put up from the floor, but declined the nomination.

For vice president of the Executive Council, Robbie Robinson, Barbara Rommel, Shirley Sprague, and Helen Thomson were proposed. Nancy Adams, Lois Settle, Ruth Nenzel, and Dorothy Thedieck were nominated to be treasurer of the Executive Council.

Twelve sophomores will run for the openings of three junior members of the Women's Honor Council, as follows: Carolyn Beach, Jane Beatty, Frances Fleming, Mary Keeney, Nancy MacLean, Lorabeth Moore, Mary Louise McNabb, Elizabeth Mylander, Jean Marie Owens, Jo Ann Prince, Barbara Simons, and Lois Willis.

At the WSCGA meeting Monday night, the amendment to Article 9 of the Women Students' constitution, which was introduced by Ann Batchelder and Ginna Lewis at the February 11 meeting and tabled for a month, was passed.

Jean Beazley, Chairman of the Judicial Committee, then introduced suggestions made by women students concerning social rules. Each suggestion was read, placed in the form of a motion, and voted on. The six rule changes passed by the WSCGA must now be voted on by the Faculty Advisory Committee. Other suggestions will be read and voted on at the WSCGA meeting next Monday night in Washington 200.

Baker, Woodberry Lead Red Cross Canvassers

In full swing this week on the William and Mary campus is the annual American Red Cross drive. The drive, which began last Friday, March 1, will continue until Sunday, March 10.

Dick Baker and Marilyn Woodberry, co-chairmen of the drive, are in charge of 42 canvassers, 15 men and 27 women, whose aim is to put William and Mary over the top of its $2000 goal.

Canvassers in each dorm and in each sorority house will approach all students before the end of the week to enlist their names on the membership roll of the Red Cross. Membership cards are one dollar and also entitle the donor to a Red Cross window sticker, while a Red Cross lapel pin will be given to each contributor.

The campus Red Cross chapter has cooperated with the county chapter in providing posters and large red crosses in store windows for publicity.

Winston Churchill, Eisenhower To Inspect Wren Building Friday

Winston Churchill

Administration Dismisses Regular Classes At 2:55-

Classes will be dismissed at 2:55 p. m. Friday so that students may greet Winston Churchill and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower who will visit the college, Dr. A. P. Wagener, chairman of the Committee on Special Events, announced Monday.

The official party which will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Churchill, their daughter, Mrs. Sara Oliver, Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower, the Earl of Halifax and Lady Halifax, and Ex-governor and Mrs. Colgate W.

Darden, is scheduled to arrive at the front gate of the College at 3:30 p. m. They will be escorted to the president's house where they will be greeted by Dr. and Mrs. John E. Pomfret. From there they proceed to the Wren building and will inspect it. The party will leave the college by the south gate near Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The Wren building will be cleared at 3:00 p. m., Dr. Wagener said, and he asked that the "students show the courtesy of the College by refraining from crowding the walks." Members of the Blackball-Chess post of the VFW will act as special guards on campus.

The former British prime minister and his party will tour the Palace and Bruton Parish church, will be served tea at the Raleigh tavern and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller at dinner at the Williamsburg Inn. In the evening they will make a candlelight tour of the Capitol. The party will leave Williamsburg by special train Friday night.

Yesterday afternoon Winston Churchill and President Truman appeared at cloistered Little Westminister College, Fulton, Mo., the ex-prime minister giving an important address there on "The Sins of Peace".

The college at Fulton made full preparations for the advent of Churchill and Truman, terming the day "C-T Day". The small campus was roped off and forbidden to all but ticket-holders at the crack of dawn Tuesday, and Missouri State guardsmen were posted at 179 intersections.

Pan-Hel Council Adopts Early Rushing System

Sorority rushing next fall will be held in September as the result of a vote favoring early rushing made by the Pan-Hellenic Council at its meeting, Monday night, March 4. This decision came as a consequence of the trial and error system. Both early and late rushing have been tried at William and Mary, and the Council has concluded that the former is the more advantageous. According to Ellen Diggs, secretary of the Pan-Hellenic Council, this

Poll Names Trapp Family For '46-'47 Concert Series

The Trapp Family Singers, who received 165 of the 370 votes cast in the student poll, Friday, February 22, will appear, if arrangements can be made, in next year's Concert Series. Otherwise, George Enesco, composer and violinist, who received 148 votes, and was the students' second choice, will be substituted.

Search For Wigs and Cognac Heralds Play Next Wednesday

By BARBARA SIMONS

"Have you been bothered by collectors of seaweed and driftwood? Have they asked you to be on the lookout for dead birds and black feathers? Are you missing your last bottle of Cognac, 1830? And what happened to last year's red wig?" These are a few of the questions that have been overheard during the last week. It sounds as if the prop girls for Ladies in Retirement have been busy. Actors' muttering lines instead of reading letters on the way back from the P. O., crew members with an extra coat of paint on their blue jeans, midnight oil burning in the costume room of Phi Beta all add up to one thing: The curtain will part one week from tonight on the William and Mary Theatre production of Ladies in Retirement.

The ladies who have retired to "an old house on the marshes of the Thames Estuary some ten miles to the east of Gravesend" all live in various stages of insanity except for Leonora (Joan LeFevre), former actress and owner of the house. Louisa (Virginia Graham) and Emily (Thelma Myers) are, according to Ellen (Barbara Simons), pathetic, but each possesses her unique share of insanity. Louisa, finding it difficult to keep her mind on one thing, drifts about the stage in aimless fashion while Emily re-

The FLAT HAT this week has been under the supervision of Nancy Easley, in accordance with the policy of having each junior editor edit one publication in the spring.

March 1-10 marks the time of the annual Red Cross Fund Drive on the campus. Dormitory representatives have been designated to canvass each dorm and contact every student on campus for a gift to the Red Cross.

This organization has always done some of the finest work of any service group. During the war it doubled its activities and carried on, both on the war front and the home front. Now that the war is over the job has not lessened, but has really increased.

With thousands of American soldiers still overseas, the Red Cross is helping to provide them with recreational facilities and anything that will give them a touch of home. Those servicemen who are convalescing in hospitals in the United States are aided by Red Cross workers here. The Red Cross also helps in rehabilitation work, provides recreation for patients. To the veterans they offer counseling service and help with problems brought about by the readjustment to civilian life.

In James City County during the war years most of the resources have been used for the home service and Camp and Hospital Service. Fourteen hundred Home Service cases were handled during the past year by the local office. The Red Cross provided information, advice and on some occasions financial aid to servicemen, ex-servicemen and their families.

Your contribution will play a part in continuing the work of the Red Cross both at home and abroad, helping to remedy servicemen's needs, aiding in combating problems of community health, and rendering assistance in times of disaster.

The questioning person sometimes asks why be born? Why live? When an individual is born, and breathes his first breath of air for himself, he is then in that process which we call living, and may then be classified as a living organism. He is now possessed with life—his own life.

However, many of these so-called individuals don't succeed in doing anything beyond the mere fact of existence. Oppositely, there are people in this world who live life to the fullest after they are possessed with the power to breathe. Life, after all, is exactly what you make it. We are in the stage of our life when everything lies before us, but are we living life to the fullest? We can only answer that question for ourselves; what a person does with his life is a problem which can only be solved by himself. The whole point is that a lot of us haven't asked ourselves what we're going to do with our lives, or what we've done with our lives.

The prevailing attitude around William and Mary is that we'll all find something to do in life which will yield a fair remuneration. Granted that some have put themselves through school and realize the fact that some day they will be completely on their own; there are others who haven't realized that fact.

Naturally many of us don't know what we're going to do after we get out of the College of William and Mary, but what is much worse, most of us haven't even thought about what we're going to do after getting out. Of course, no one can predict the future, but it is a wise thing for us to have some idea what our next move is going to be.

more trips for choir

(The following letter was received by President Pomfret from the Supervisor of Music on the State Board of Education of Virginia.)

Dear Dr. Pomfret:

Last Thursday evening I had the pleasure of hearing your splendid chorus at the Westhampton College under the inspiring leadership of Mr. Carl A. Fehr. This musical organization did great credit both to the College of William and Mary, and also to your Music Department. I feel that you have in this choral group a means of letting people know that you have a fine music department, and that students coming to your campus may have outstanding opportunities in the field of music.

I think it would be highly desirable for this group to make as many public appearances as is consistent with their college program, for I am sure that their singing will add greatly to the prestige of the fine arts program of William and Mary.

As State Supervisor of Music, I appreciate very much the splendid work you are doing in music. This work of your Music Department will do much to help us with the state music program.

Sincerely yours,
Luther A. Richman
Supervisor of Music

frechette lambasts social rules in

william and mary go-round

By FRED FRECHETTE

William and Mary women students are shackled by one of the most inglorious, ill-conceived, and insufferable collection of "social rules" ever assembled in one booklet. The insignificance of the obscured regulations combined with the insinuations of the more important maxims are an insult to the intelligence and maturity of college women. As long as I live, I will remember the foul inference engendered by the rule regarding women going into Matoaka Park. Which implies that any couple—man and woman, or two women—going into Matoaka Park cannot be trusted . . . or were the originators of the rule afraid of attacks by hostile Indians?

Some naive souls have argued that rules prevent people who might do wrong from doing wrong. I contend that no rule in the world can prevent any girl from doing what she wants. At the same time merely because a coed breaks a rule does not necessarily mean that she has done wrong.

stinson demands

interested officials

By HARRY STINSON

Probably more editorial space in this paper has been devoted to the various phases of student government than any other campus subject. There must be some reason for the dubious honor that has been bestowed on student government organizations. However, when one begins to read through the many criticisms that have been made, he discovers that it is impossible to place the blame on any one feature of student government. In fact, it soon becomes apparent that there are few phases of student government that have not been subjected to verbal bombardment. Of course at this point an anarchist could get his soap box out and stand in front of Lord Botetourt and deliver some good arguments for his point of view.

But we believe that from all the criticisms and suggestions made concerning student government there can be extracted one fundamental point that all too often has been overlooked. For the most part all that has been said about student government has pertained to the mechanics and machinery of the system. On the other hand, very little attention has been given to those who are entrusted with making the machinery operate. We refer, of course, to the students who compose the various student governing bodies. In the last issue of The FLAT HAT, Dick Carter expressed a view-point that we think worthy of emphasis here: "Our experiences in the past three years have taught us that the people in an organization have the most to do towards the ultimate success of any project."

Indeed, it appears that very little thought is required to discover that an efficient student governing body can be effected only when the student governing officials capable of and interested in assuming their duties are elected. We grant that the present machinery of student government may be a bit cumbersome. But is it so complicated that the governing officials can only sit on their broad bottoms and complain of the inefficient organization?

If there be faults in the present form of student government, we believe that basically the students themselves are to blame. On more than one occasion it has been demonstrated that there is not sufficient interest on the part of the students to meet the difficulties that have arisen. Even if the present system were made free from complicated procedure, unless the members of the various governing bodies showed more life, the only result would be that the officials would have nothing to complain about and the columnists would have nothing to write about.

The students are the living part of student government; the machinery is dead and incapable of sustaining itself. It seems that the logical place to begin in reviving student government is with the living parts. Then if the machinery needs changing, the necessary steps can be taken.

AN ANALOGY . . .

Our present system of social rules and the judicial Committee remind me of what went on during Prohibition. The people, as a whole, did not want Prohibition, so they did not obey its edicts. There was never a more lawless era in the history of our country. Finally, our legislative body saw the uselessness of trying to make people (including themselves) live a way of life that a relative few thought was the right way to live.

We can see the same thing on this campus. We have rules which do not conform to the way of living to which the women are accustomed. The result is large scale rule-breaking. The Judicial Committee would have to put an over-conscientious representative on almost every "date" to be able to preserve the sanctity of the social rules.

I am not an anachist . . . I believe that authority, laws and their proper enforcement, are important and necessary to any society. But a law which does not conform to custom, which is contrary to the mores of the group, cannot be enforced. Such a law should be abolished or amended to conform to the prevalent conditions. The same line of reasoning can be applied to our social rules.

HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS

Our coeds are living in two worlds, so to speak. They live under the eyes of their parents, the people who care the most what happens to them, when at home. Here at school, they are under an impersonal form of jurisdiction. Yet, the people who are most concerned with the girls' welfare, their parents, allow the girls the greatest degree of liberty, give them more responsibility, and trust them the most. Is the college assuming that it knows what is best for the girls?

I believe that the parents who send their girls to William and Mary trust their children. If they didn't, they would send the young women to an institution, not a college.

HAVEN'T THE DARK AGES ENDED?

I have a suggestion: Let the women students draw up a list of the controversial rules and their alternatives, then mail them to the parents of the women students for a referendum. In this way, the parents of the girls, who are as much, if not more concerned with the situation as the college, could have a voice in the matter.

Perhaps such a project is too progressive for this college, but some kind of progress is needed. The difference between the lives our coeds lead at home and the lives they are expected to lead under the present social rules is too great to expect even a reasonable facsimile of obedience to the rules. A good law is one which is respected . . . and students have nothing but contempt for those which exist here.

checking system at dances

To the Editor:

Last Saturday night at Blow Gym two coats were lost, strayed, or stolen! I say two coats because I know of but two, but from the knowledge of past events it could easily have been more.

No doubt some of the fault could be laid to the unfortunate losers. I, an unfortunate loser, realize that some of the fault was mine, but the greatest fault is in the lack of any checking system.

It seems to me and many others I have talked to that we could begin operation of a check room. Not knowing the policy of the school, I hesitate to suggest a plan but believe I could suggest a rough outline of one.

The same room on the first floor in which the men have been leaving their coats could be used. A couple of fellows could have some portable equipment they could rig up on dance nights and offer a safe checking service for a small fee. All confusion of misplaced coats, wrong coats, and stolen coats could be avoided, and one would be able to enjoy the dance without fear of a loss that in these days is near fatal.

I should like to point out that the recent loss suffered by myself and Lee Ashdon had none of the appearances of an accident. On entering the gym I placed Lee's coat, a tan gabardine, in mine, a white raincoat, and laid them over a chair in the downstairs cloakroom. Both coats were gone by intermission, which proves the job was probably pulled by an outside party; and being placed as they were there was hardly a moronic chance of mistaken identity.

Shiveringly,
Lottis D. Bailey.

Ennis Rees About Faces From Football To "PBK"

English Major Enjoys Literature, Plans Harvard Graduate Work

"I didn't do much except play football in high school and I didn't do much except study in college," said tall, serious Ennis Rees, member of Phi Beta Kappa. Ennis is a native Virginian, born in Newport News and living there ever since. Besides winning his letter in football Ennis also participated in track while in high school.

During the years he attended school there, Newport News won the state track championship for several years in a row Ennis admitted that he didn't make as good grades in high school as he did in college. The only way he can explain the phenomenal change from an athlete to a hard-working student is that he acquired a new sense of values and decide that it would be a good idea to study for a change.

Ennis was vice-president of the student body and also of the senior class in high school. According to him he is always being elected vice-president of something. A newly elected senior representative to Student Assembly, Ennis says he hasn't been installed yet so he doesn't know what it's all about.

"My hobby is reading, but I guess it is more of a vocation than anything else. I like poetry and almost any kind of great literature." He admits that he hasn't read most of the best-sellers but would if he had the time. In between reading, eating, working in the cafeteria, and being with Marion Lott, Ennis says he doesn't have time to do much else.

He claims he is noted for his long silences. It doesn't bother him but he is always worrying that it might be painful for others and so he starts talking. "Then," Ennis says, "I'm liable to talk too much." As for vices he said, "I'm full of them—the lesser ones, I mean."

Graduating in June, Ennis plans to go on to Harvard if he doesn't have to go into the Army. At Harvard he intends to work toward his master's and eventually his doctor's degree in English with the prime aim of becoming a college English professor someday.

Ennis Rees

Contractors End Job With Campus Clean-up

Renovation of the "smoke house", the small building at the side of the Wren Building, has been completed. This building was originally used as a smoke house, an essential outbuilding in colonial times.

Because of scarcity of materials no spring rebuilding work is planned except a general clean-up program. The contractors are now completing a clean-up job after installing the new heating system.

Is Science Necessary?

In view of all the controversy over required courses, science in particular, Dr. Guy asks.

"Should a course in one or more of the natural sciences be required of all students in a liberal arts program?"

Fran Fleming: "Yes, it hardens you for any other course!"

Doc Ware: "Sure—it trains your mind to think."

Fran Moore: "I don't think it would be too much help. Not everyone is cut out to take science. It depends on your major."

Fritz Zepht: "Yes, I'd say so. The purpose of a liberal arts school is a well rounded background. Science is part of the background."

Ginger Hawkins: "Yes, because all sciences lead to clear thinking, and that is a necessity in any course."

Scotty Wall: "No, most people don't like science unless it is their major. The voice of experience is the best teacher."

Jack Hoey: "Sure, liberal arts don't make sense without science."

Betty Smeddle: "Yes, everyone should be open to the evils of science!"

Cliff Anglum: "Yes, you have to live with science—you might as well understand a bit of it."

Mary Gray: "Now that I've had one—sure! The aim of required courses is to give a well-rounded education."

Al Appell: "Yes, it gives the student a broadened scope of intellect."

Monty Wooley: "As long as it's not biology!"

College Paints Meeting Room

In preparation for the national Phi Beta Kappa celebration next fall, which according to present plans will be held at William and Mary, where Phi Beta Kappa was founded, redecoration of Phi Beta Kappa Hall is being undertaken this semester.

Thomas Thorne, associate professor of Fine Arts, is in charge of the color scheme for the new interior decoration of the building. The walls of the Apollo and Dodge Rooms will be painted oyster white, with powder blue woodwork in the Apollo Room and Wythe House green woodwork in the Dodge Room. The foyer will be decorated in two tones of grey.

This painting and equipment of the Apollo and Dodge Rooms with new draperies and possibly venetian blinds is planned for completion this spring. The auditorium of Phi Beta Kappa Hall will be painted either in May or during the summer.

Syracuse Awards Offer Scholastic Fellowships

Applications for the Syracuse University Graduate Appointments are now being accepted for next year's spring term at the University.

Research Fellowships of $1400 are awarded to two students of high academic standing for study and research beyond the master's degree in the Graduate School. The stipend is on a two-term basis and is not renewable.

Twenty University Fellowships of $1,000 apiece are awarded to students of high academic standing. Ten of these fellowships are awarded in various departments of the graduate school for work leading to the doctorate. Ten are awarded in the Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs for work leading to the master's degree. Of these, five are in Citizenship education, four in Political Science, and one in Social Psychology. In addition, there are five fellowships in Public Administration.

There are other graduate opportunities open at Syracuse University for research and personnel assistantships. Requests for further information and application forms for all Graduate Appointments should be addressed to Dean of the Graduate School, Syracuse University, Syracuse 10, N. Y.

Debaters Visit Five Colleges

Debating Monday night, March 4, in Washington, D. C. a negative team representing the William and Mary Intercollegiate Debate Council began its northern trip, which will end Friday, March 8.

Betty Jane Taylor, Ann Batchelder, and Herbert Bateman are debating the negative side of the topic, Resolved: That the foreign policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world, at five colleges and universities.

Included in the trip are debates at the American University, Washington, D. C.; John Hopkins, Baltimore, Md.; the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Penna.; Temple University, Philadelphia, Penna.; and Columbia University, New York, N. Y. Three of the debates are decision debates, and two are non-decision.

This is the second trip made by members of the Debate Council; Virginia Stephens and Edith Isele made up the negative team which debated at Randolph-Macon Women's College, Lynchburg, Va., on Thursday, February 28.

Magazine Proffers Prizes To Writers

Tomorrow magazine's $1500 prize contest, open to all officially enrolled college students throughout the United States, will close on May 1.

The best short story and the best article will each receive a first prize of $500, while second prize in both of these categories will be $250.

The choice of subject matter for both stories and articles is left to the discretion of the contestants, although no theme is actually prohibited. Manuscripts will be judged solely on the basis of literary merit and clarity of expression. Tomorrow will publish both the prize winning story and article in its December, 1946, issue.

Length of manuscripts may range from 2500 to 5000 words. The notation, "Entry for College Contest", along with the name and address of the contestant must appear on the envelope and also the first page of each manuscript. Return postage must also be included.

Library Displays Books On Religious Subjects

In keeping with the Lenten season, the library will sponsor a religious book display starting today.

Both old and new books will be exhibited, including some volumes from the vaults. A King James Version of the Bible, published in 1613, will be shown, as well as William Laws' Serious Call to a Devout and Holy Life, first published in 1729. Another book on display will be a book describing The Book of Kells, published in the seventh century. The original of this is preserved in a monastery in Ireland. It has been called the most beautiful book in the world and contains the finest example of illuminated manuscripts in existence, according to Robert H. Land, associate librarian, who has compiled the display.

LOOK'S RECORD REVIEW

TOPS IN WAX—Love Me and I've Got The World On A String. Woody Herman and the Herd, band poll winners of 1945, usher in their first pairing for the year with these titles. The former shows the great Herman trumpet section of Candelari, Berman, Hefti, Lewis, and Rogers in rare and fantastic form. Gold Award winning "Flip" Phillips tenors through both sides, Frances Wayne sings Love Me, and Woody handles both vocals and the clarinet in the latter (Columbia).

BOOGIE—Decca features the powerhouse trumpeting of "Little Jazz" by Roy Eldridge in a Buster Harding tune, Little Jazz Boogie. Dynamic Roy reaches for his bag of tricks in his trumpet rides and uses punching riffs, trills, and some stratospheric notes. His high ones into the fade-away are always exciting, and an Eldridge trademark. On the reverse he solos to the Gershwin oldie, Embraceable You.

VOCAL STANDOUT—The "Voice" has a pair of winning titles—Oh! What It Seemed To Be and Day By Day. Both are sugary with sentiment in a strictly wistful vein. Frank Sinatra's handling of the lyrics, and backed on both sides by some truly fine orchestrating by Axel Stordahl, will make his fans shout with glee, and others, fans or not, nod with approval (Columbia).

DANCE DISCS—Charlie Spivak runs the gamut of his famed "sweetest trumpet" style in The Bells of St. Mary's, from the RKO picture of the same name. His muted trumpet is supported by soft brass which establishes the theme. Throughout, all effects are highly pleasing, and are handled with excellent taste. Jimmy Saunders sings the vocals, and, for the fade, the band resolves into the tones of the Great Organ. On the flip-over Jimmy Saunders sings, You Can Cry On Somebody Else's Shoulder, which is done at a lively and easy dance clip (Victor).

Harry James gives an expansive treatment to the Chopin adaptation, I'm Always Chasing Rainbows. Here the James horn is heard in a groovy, open style that is lifted by a highly danceable beat that the band drops in for support. Buddy Di Vito sings the vocals to an all-out sweet James arrangement. The platter-mate, Baby, What You Do To Me, has a lusty dance kick, screaming brass riffs, and vocal by chirper Kitty Kallen (Columbia).

Carmen Cavallaro turns in one of his best performances to date with a dance arrangement of Warsaw Concerto. His flying fingers round out a type of piano technique seldom heard in a dance band. Throughout there is exceptionally good taste in the handling of muted brass and strings with unusual responsive effects. On the backing he plays, A Love Like This, and injects a buoyant Latin rhythm to support his piano and band, and also has the vocal sung by Gloria Foster (Decca).

NEW AND WORTHY IMPRESSIONS IN WAX

SYMPHONY — Bing Crosby, Vocal (Decca)

WE'LL BE TOGETHER AGAIN — Les Brown, Dance (Columbia)

SOME SUNDAY MORNING — Louis Prima, Dance (Majestic)

HUMORESQUE — David Rose, Concert Dance (Victor)

I'M THROUGH WITH LOVE — Dick Brown, Vocal (Guild)

mains sullen, silent, and suspicious. The third of the Creed sisters is Ellen, dominant, clever, efficient, and sane except for an obsession which leads to homicide for which she pays dearly. Sister Theresa (Nancy Adams) and Lucy, the maid (Gene Griffin) are retired to the country, the latter retired only until the arrival of Albert (Clint Atkinson), a complete cad, who uses her for his ulterior purposes.

There might be a warning issued to the College in general that if Ginny Graham is seen gazing through a telescope from the balcony of Wren or Tem Myers is starting a personal project of cleaning up the campus there is no cause for alarm. If Joan LeFevre has been dancing to the tune of Tit Willow in the Wigwam and Barbara Simons has been reminding people that "it takes a lot of nerve to kill for the first time," there's no need of a psychiatrist. If Clint Atkinson has been acting like a perfect cad and Nancy Adams very saintly, if Gene Griffin has been batting eyelashes, the College has not become an extension of Eastern State. The cast is perfectly sane and normal, just preparing for a week of final rehearsals before Wednesday night's performance.

Welding Society Offers Undergraduate Prizes

Annual cash awards for the best and second best articles on welding to appear in undergraduate magazines or papers are being offered by the A. F. Davis Undergraduate Welding Award Program.

To encourage undergraduate interest in the subject of welding, awards of $200 to the author of the best paper and $150 to the author of the second best paper, as well as equal awards to the publications in which the articles appear, will be presented through the American Welding Society.

Articles may be on any phase of any type of welding or its application to construction and design. Judging will be on the basis of the originality of the paper and the thoroughness with which the subject is covered.

SPORTS SPIEL

By ED GRIFFIN

Last week's loss to Wake Forest was a trifle surprising to some people who thought the Indians had a better than even chance of winning. Then they looked at the box score and the situation became more puzzling than ever.

Stan Magdziak, of course, was holding down one of the forward positions. His running mate, however, was not Jere Bunting or Woody Kinnamon, but Dave Clark. Bob Holley was at center where he belonged and Chet Mackiewicz was at guard. The other guard slot, though, was filled not by Sal Salyers, but by Woody Williams.

Why Bunting or Kinnamon did not start is hard to understand. Jere, the fastest man and most capable ballhawk on the squad, has used his speed and alertness to the greatest possible advantage; and Woody, though not quite as spectacular, packs a good scoring punch. Both played excellently in the Maryland game, the one which the Tribe had to win in order to receive a tournament bid. In spite of their more than adequate showing during the year, they were not allowed to start the most important contest of all; and, when they did get in, they were not used as forwards, but as guards. This isn't quite logical, to say the least.

Williams, although showing promise, has not had the advantage of an entire season of play as Salyers has. Sal and Chet have worked well together in each game and it is hard to see why they were broken up. This is not meant to detract at all from the ability of Williams, but merely to state that much practice and a constant lineup are needed in order to mold a winning team.

These changes seem even more odd when a look is taken at the year's record. After a fair start the Braves went into a tailspin which lasted for six games. Then, with a record of four and eight, they revived to take six of their last seven encounters and seemed to have developed into a smooth-working combine. If this combination was good enough to secure a tourney invitation, why was it changed? The Redmen, who lost an early season contest to the Deacons by only two points, were trimmed with relative ease after this drastic shakeup had occurred.

A baseball manager, except in times of emergency, would not think of using one of his starting pitchers in a relief role. Nor would he be likely to shift his catcher to shortstop. The switch in the Indian lineup seems comparable. One of the visiting newspapermen at Raleigh commented that, aside from Magdziak, William and Mary's squad did not seem to show much ability. How could they do their best when the pattern which they had followed for most of the season was altered? It is surprising that, under the circumstances, they did not absorb a worse defeat.

— W-M —

Those of you who saw last week's encounter with Randolph-Macon will perhaps remember that Magdziak collected 24 points. This seems a large total, which it is. It fades, however, before the idea of the number which he could have scored, had he been allowed to finish the game.

"Stosh" racked up 13 tallies in the first half, which was a very good start. After intermission, though, he really got hot; and, dropping in almost every shot he attempted, garnered 11 points in 7 minutes. This effort gave him an aggregate of 24 in 27 minutes. After this brilliant exhibition he was pulled out, along with the rest of the first team, and rode the bench until the final buzzer.

The state scoring record is 35 points. Magdziak, by virtue of the terrific accuracy which he had displayed up to the point when he was relieved, was almost certain to have shattered this mark. Why was he benched?

One reason and the only possible one for benching the first-string outfit was to allow the subs to get into the game. This is quite understandable. It would be altogether unfair not to play the reserves as much as possible. They work hard and deserve as much credit as anybody else. But four positions would have been an entirely sufficient number to have used in this manner. Stan, had he been left in, had a fine chance

Gardner Larned, Star Netter, Bolsters Tribe Tennis Squad

By LOU BAILEY

"Natural aptitude, practice, and good coaching" is the success formula of Gardner Larned, ace addition to Coach Sharvy Umbeck's potent racket wielders.

Gardner, 6' 2" ex-GI, hails from the big city immortalized by Mrs. O'Leary's cow and Carl Sandburg. He entered the Army in February, 1943, and was overseas twice, the first time in Africa and the Ascension Islands. The second time he served as a rifleman with the 75th Division in France, Belgium, and Germany. Wounded during the "Battle of the Bulge" on January 19, 1945, he was subsequently evacuated and received his discharge in July, 1945.

Beginning tennis at the age of twelve, Gardner had good coaching from the start and devoted many hours to practice. He entered his first big tournament, National Boys, when he was 13 and was eliminated in the second round. The next year he was runner-up in the National Boys Indoor Tournament at New York and teamed with Jimmy Evert, now stationed at Camp Peary, to win the Doubles crown.

Gardner first visited William and Mary in 1942 and played tournament doubles with Bob Smidl, William and Mary ace who was killed in the ETO. Mr. and Mrs. Larned, he's been married for two years, entered school in February and live in the Theta Delta Chi house on Richmond Road.

He thinks prospects of William and Mary having a highly successful season very good and believes his wife will be a good influence on his tennis. In his opinion all tennis players are a little crazy but not to the extent that warrants padded cells.

One of his biggest tennis thrills was his defeat of Frankie Kovacs in Jacksonville in 1941 by a score of 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. That same year Gardner won the Illinois State title, and in 1942 covered the Mid-West on a U. S. O. tennis tour with Bobby Riggs.

He hasn't yet definitely decided on a major or a vocation but plans to spend the summer playing tournament tennis.

Squaws Lose Court Battle

William and Mary's freshman basketball squad invaded Richmond last Friday and were handed a 43-19 setback by the more experienced St. Catherine's sextet.

Playing a team that lost to Westhampton by only one point the squaws battled all the way to overcome a high score and in the second half of the locales rang up 11 markers. Millie Riddle playing her usual fine game accounted for 8 points; however, Chapman and Marks of St. Catherine's were far too cagey for the freshmen and their combined efforts yielded a total of 30 points.

The plucky Williamsburg squad had to contend with tall, fast guards who kept the W&M score down to a minimum of six points at half-time while their teammates chalked up 19.

Captain Virginia Murphy and Sally Adams tried to stem the tide and together with Riddle they carried the brunt of the offensive work for the squaws. Obitz, Herman, Borman, and Allen formed the defense trio who were particularly effective in the second half.

This game terminated the freshman schedule. They compiled a season of one win and two losses.

INTRAMURAL NEWS

In the intramural ping pong tournament Pete Moncure defeated Frank Deierhoi in the third round while Danny Goldenburg has yet to play Iver Brook. The winners of these two matches will meet in the finals sometime before March 16 and the victor will be awarded an intramural medal.

Intramural head Kenneth Rawlinson has announced that an intramural handball tournament will begin about March 13. The matches will be played on a two out of three basis. Any student is eligible for play and the deadline for entering is March 11 at 5:00 p. m. Medals will be awarded to first and second place winners.

The college pool has reopened after having been closed for several days because the chlorine content was too high.

Duke Takes Championship, Tripping Deacons In Finals

William and Mary's cagers were eliminated by the Wake Forest Deacons by 42-31 in the first round of the Southern Conference basketball tournament on February 28 at Raleigh, N. C. The Deacons went on to whip North Carolina in the semi-finals only to lose to Duke in their final game.

The Tribe managed to stay pretty close to the Wake Foresters until half-time, when the score was 22-19. In the second period the Deacons, led by Walters and Williams, gradually increased their lead and when the game ended they had an 11-point margin over the locals.

Duke, conference champions again for the fifth time, had a tough time eliminating North Carolina State in their opener, but managed to win 44-38 in an overtime period. State led 20-18 at half-time and maintained their lead throughout the second period, but with less than three minutes to go Bubber Seward, Duke forward, tapped in a rebound shot to tie the game at 36-all. Ed Koffenberger and Dick Whiting sank two quick goals in the first minute of overtime to put the Blue Devils in front for good.

North Carolina ran over the University of Maryland in another first round game by a 54-27 count. The Tahreels were never threatened by the weakened Maryland team.

Indian Football Team Continues Practice With Intrasquad Game

With three weeks of spring football practice behind them, the 1946 edition of the William and Mary football team is rounding into shape after three months of relaxation.

The team marked their third week of training by going through a gruelling intrasquad game on Wednesday, February 27, at Cary Field. The last half of the game, in which all players participated, was played during a light rain, and the warm weather that had paid to the veterans returned from service. With the aid of the exercise and scrimmages they are slowly rounding into football shape. Several of the new freshmen on the squad have been spending the time adjusting themselves to college football.

Eric Tipton, Big Green backfield coach, has left for Florida, where he has begun spring training on the Cincinnati Reds' baseball club. Helping Marvin Bass with the line during the past few prevailed at the time knocked a few pounds off the players.

The past three weeks have been taken up with warming up on calisthenics to get the kinks out, and the learning of new and old plays, which have been thoroughly gone over in scrimmages. Along with these new plays Coach R. N. "Rube" McCray has tried out a variation of the popular "T" formation, but has stuck to the single wing, on the whole.

Particular attention has been weeks has been last year's co-captain, Doc Holloway.

Working out with the team a few days was Harvey Johnson, the Redmen's all-State, all-Conference star back with the team of 1942. "Stud" was the man who kicked the field goal for the 3-0 win against Navy.

No official schedule has yet been given out by Coach McCray as yet. Three home games have been scheduled, one each against V.M.I., V.P.I., and Maryland. Other games are tentative so far.

Westhampton Edges Out Squaw Sextet By 22-18

In a seesaw court battle last Saturday afternoon, William and Mary's varsity co-ed sextet dropped a close game to Westhampton, 22-18. It was the fourth loss in five starts for the Squaws and marked the end of the current intercollegiate basketball season.

Drawing first blood, the locals took an early 3-0 lead when captain Ann Vineyard sank a foul try and a long set shot. Westhampton broke into the scoring column a few minutes later as Edwardson rang up 2 points and the first quarter ended with William and Mary holding a 4-2 margin.

Mid-way in the next quarter Sanford and Edwardson combined forces to fashion a 11-10 edge for the Richmonders. Gustafson also found the range and the half-time score stood 13-10 against the Squaws.

Miss Martha Barksdale's charges quickly eliminated the deficit in the initial minutes of the second stanza. "Beegee" Grant tallied twice in rapid succession and home forces held the advantage until the last 30 seconds of the third period when Gustafson sank a long shot.

The guarding situation of both teams afforded the forwards little opportunity at close lay-ups. William and Mary's final goal was made when Vineyard took the ball out of bounds in preference to a foul throw and passed to Grant whose scoring flip pushed the count to 18. The contest ended shortly after with the score 22-18 for Westhampton.

Betty Borenstein, playing her third complete game for the Squaws, recovered backboard rebounds, intercepted an extremely high percentage of passes, and was largely responsible for keeping the opponents' score down. Black and Fehse turned in some excellent defensive work and Grant and Vineyard each rang up nine markers while Beatty's center line coverage was outstanding.

The Lineups:

SPORTS SPEIL

of setting a record which might never have been approached. This opportunity comes very seldom to most college athletes and is rarely repeated.

— W-M —

The 1940 Homecoming game for the Indians was played on November 26 against the University of Virginia, with the Tribe taking the field as decided underdogs. The vaunted Cavaliers, however, were upset by a 13-6 count, losing both the contest and the State championship.

After a scoreless first half, the Tri-Color backs, led by Stud Johnson, Harlie Masters, and Pappy Fields, ripped through the Virginia line to score two touchdowns and insure victory.

The Cavaliers' ace backs, Bill Dudley and Eddie (Flash) Bryant, could make no headway against the stout Indian line, anchored by Buster Ramsey, Marvin Bass, and Captain Charlie Gondak. The visitors' lone tally came in the fourth period, when Dudley passed 25 yards to Jim White. When the final whistle blew the Braves were again knocking at the door, holding the ball on the Virginia three-yard stripe.

Since this contest the Charlottesville institution has repeatedly refused to meet William and Mary on the gridiron, preferring to claim half of the State title rather than risking all of it.

Such a game, between two schools which usually turn out the strongest teams in the Old Dominion, would be a natural drawing card now as it was in the past. An attraction of this kind would draw a sellout crowd anywhere it was played. Why, then, doesn't it take place every year?

William and Mary is certainly not averse to the prospect. The students would go all out for it and the athletic department stated only last fall, that it was willing and able to arrange a meeting. The fly in the ointment is the attitude of the powers-that-be in Charlottesville.

Norton Pritchett, Virginia athletic director, although letting his basketball and tennis squads meet Indian teams, apparently will not consent to a football game. What reason could he have? The game would certainly be well received by the numerous alumni of both schools and would provide a wealth of publicity. As far as the financial angle goes, Virginia could probably let all the spectators in free and never miss the money. You rarely hear of a pecuniary need at the school which Thomas Jefferson founded.

There is one other reason left. They won't play William and Mary because they don't want to lose. A defeat in tennis or basketball is not regarded as very important and is soon forgotten. Football, however, is the major college sport and each game must be won if possible. The '42 Indian squad could have shellacked the best combination which the Cavaliers had to offer. They were well aware of this and maintained a discreet silence whenever schedules were mentioned. They wouldn't play William and Mary last year and there is faint hope that they will do so during the coming season.

Last season the Braves won all their State games as did Virginia. The latter, therefore, claimed a share of the State title. It is utter-unjust to allow this claim. The Cavalier alumni should put pressure on the Virginia officials to schedule the Tribe in the interests of accuracy, if nothing else.

33. The lead changed several times in the first period, and Tech was trailing at half-time. Captain Bushkar put Virginia Tech back in the game in the second period by his shooting, and after that the Gobblers were never threatened.

In the second round the favored Tarheels were knocked out by the smooth working Wake Foresters, and Duke easily toppled Virginia Tech.

In the final game Wake Forest, let down by their surprising upset of North Carolina, fell before the Duke Blue Devils by a 49-30 tally. Ed Koffenberger, Duke's ace center and high scorer of the tournament with 40 points, sparked Duke on to their lop-sided victory. Wake Forest tied the score at 4-4 and 6-6 in the early minutes of the game, but thereafter it was Duke all the way. The Deacons evidently couldn't keep up with their fast-breaking opponents and were trailing 24-16 at the half.

The Deacons put on a drive at the beginning of the second period which was sparked by Hinerman and Lougee, but they couldn't keep up with the withering pace set by Duke.

Stan Magdziak, Indian forward, received honorable mention on the all-Southern Conference basketball squad.

Camp Releases Former Students

News was received Friday, March 1, at the Alumni Office from the German prison camp, Stammlager Luft III-W, of the safety of eight captive American airmen, all former students of the College. The censored postal card brought greetings to friends at William and Mary from "Al Gilsdorf '40, Jimmy Fitzpatrick '44, Hendricks '45, Bowles '45, Beattie '45, Mac MacArthur '44, Kendler '44, Sterling Strange, Jr. Pres-'41". The card was dated January 11, 1945.

Since writing that reassuring message, Lieut. Strange, whose home is in Richmond, Virginia, has returned to this country and married. Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Frank Bowles and Jesse Kendler are also Richmonders.

Fitzpatrick and Kendler are now safely back on the William and Mary campus as "returned veterans" and finding their studies "both difficult and pleasant".

Primrose Appears In Viola Concert

By popular request, William Primrose, violinist, will give his second concert performance before a William and Mary audience on Tuesday, March 19, at 8:00 p. m., in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Mr. Primrose performed at the college before on January 6, 1944.

The Scottish-born violinist first began the study of the violin when he was four and a half years old. His father had acquired the 530-year-old viola Mr. Primrose now plays, in France, about 1917 and it had intrigued him so much that he turned to it in place of the violin.

In 1935, Mr. Primrose toured Europe, and played for the late King George V of England. Previous tours, before he took up the viola, had taken him all over Africa, and parts of Asia.

Mr. Primrose's appearance will conclude the current concert series.

Bruton Presents Program For Lenten Observance

Bruton Parish Church's program of Lenten and Easter music began yesterday afternoon when William Vollmer presented a program of organ music at 5:15. Mr. Vollmer will continue this series on each Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday afternoon for three weeks. Other Easter music planned includes a cantata, "The Cross of the Crucifixion", to be presented by the Bruton Parish Choir on Palm Sunday.

Spring Romance Fails As Delphinium Says "No, No, No"

They had been walking in the Sunken Garden, hand in hand, talking of this and that. All seemed to be well, so he turned aside and whispered in her ear. She immediately withdrew her hand from his, stopped, glared at him for several seconds, then said, most emphatically, "No!"

Being somewhat taken aback by this prompt refusal, he fell into the pitfall into which so many men have dropped before him. He started to argue with her.

"Aw, but, Honey, look around you. Spring is nearly here, the bird is on the wing, and all is well with the world (in certain spots). Now why throw a note of discord into all of this beauty, serenity, and harmony? Now, come on and . . . ."

"I said no, Alphonse. How many times must I repeat it to drive it through your thick skull? No, no, no, NO!"

"Well, let's look at it from this side, Delphinium. Look around you. Others are, why can't we?"

"That's just it," she replied, "And look at the results. No, I can't see my way clear to . . . ."

"You're just being narrow-minded, Delphinium," said Alphonse, thereby putting another foot into his mouth. "I fail to see . . . ."

"Just one more word out of you, Alphonse Clavicle, and I'll never speak to you again. Is that clear? You're the one who's being narrow-minded—why can't you see this from my point of view? I told you once, I told you twice, I told you three times. Now, for the fourth and final time, I absolutely refuse!"

Upon perceiving that Alphonse plainly intended to wax vehement upon the minds of all women in general, and upon one woman's mind in particular, and having no particular interest in being insulted on such a beautiful day, Delphinium turned on her heel and left Alphonse standing there alone, bewildered, sullen, confused, morose, and very plainly put out.

So ended the campus romance of Alphonse and Delphinium. Everyone had remarked that they were such a nice couple, and seemed to get along so well together. But—that's the way it goes.

It seems that Delphinium just wouldn't cut campus.

Group Plans Day Of Prayer Friday

Friday at 8:00 p. m. in the Wren Chapel, the interdenominational Williamsburg Council of Church Women will sponsor a special Day of Prayer service.

Observed by Christian women all around the world, the theme for this year, given by Miss Mabel Shaw, an English missionary to Southern Rhodesia in South Africa, is "The things that make for our peace". The Williamsburg women's group was formed 15 years ago by Miss Anne Chapman and Mrs. James Ballard. It is a branch of the world-wide United Council of Church Women.

"Observances of this day are begun in the Far East and follow the sun around the world, ending in Alaska," according to Miss Emily Hall. The service takes place annually on the first Friday of the Lenten period.

A committee representative of the different denominations has has charge of arrangements and includes Mrs. Roger Buck, local chairman, and Mrs. Floyd Ayres, Mrs. Baxter Bell, and Mrs. W. A. R. Goodwin. A collection will be taken for missionary enterprises, to be distributed among the various churches.

PLACEMENT BUREAU ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Placement Bureau has requested that all graduating students, class of June 1946, who are planning to register in the Placement Bureau do so at once. Interviews are now being scheduled by this office, and Hibbert D. Corey, director of placement, has asked the cooperation of the senior class in keeping these appointments promptly.

Janitors And Maids Form Traditional Part Of College

Mattie, James, Henry, Ernst, Walter Hold Long W-M Service Records

As familiar a part of the College as the bell or the buildings are the janitors and maids around William and Mary. Some have been here most of their lives and others for a relatively short time.

Mattie Braxton, currently of Jefferson, has come to be practically a college institution. She was 12 years old when she first worked for Dr. Tyler in 1902. "I was a good, big girl though and could take care of the housework. Mrs. Tyler treated me as if I was her own little girl." When the Tylers left, she went to dorms. Jefferson is where she has been longest. "I've been doing parties ever since. Since the war the college has been growing so, I'm afraid I won't be able to keep up with it; but I've been here so long it's a part of me."

George Carter, with his distinctive mustache, can't be missed at the door of Washington. He's been at William and Mary for only 18 months, but Williamsburg is his home town. One of his jobs is caretaker of "The Boys", a high spot in his life. "I like most to see the students go by," George said, "and I'm real lonesome when they're gone."

"I'm next to Henry up here on the job," Ernest said straightening his shoulders back. "Henry's been around for 38 years, back when there were only three buildings inside the campus. It's all been built up since I've been here." Head Janitor is Ernest's title now; but he has done everything from taking care of the horses they used to have, to waiting on tables. Of the old regime, he says, "It was a pretty rapid bunch that used to be around here."

Of course Henry, who rings the bell and has been here for 50-odd years, is a well-known figure on campus. Without his bell-ringing William and Mary wouldn't be the same. It was he who kept the College "open" in its poorer days by ringing the bell on schedule.

From being a pile driver at the Norfolk Navy Yard to William and Mary came Walter Kelly. For five years he was in the kitchen "catching dishes, but the plates were too hot, and it was too confining and all," so he switched to Marshall-Wythe.

James Robinson claims 25 years. He used to serve at the "bar" at one of the sorority houses during rushing. "It was lots of fun when they asked for all these different kinds of drinks and I gave them all the same thing." He used to be the Theta Delt right-hand man—in fact he's always been with boys until this year, when he came to Chandler. "The girls are neater, of course, because boys will be boys. The boys have their little parties." Robinson likes Chandler, but he will be glad when he can go back to the fraternity houses.

Mattie, who has 15 years to her credit, is a loyal Chandler woman. She is sending her son to New England Conservatory and also saving up to build a new house. She maintains, "Chandler has the most swellest girls."

Government Staff Adds James Hayes

James Hayes, new addition to the teaching staff of the government department of the College, began holding classes yesterday. Specializing in the field of international relations, Mr. Hayes holds a B.A. degree from the University of Minnesota.

At the beginning of the war, the young professor entered the Field Artillery as a first lieutenant. Later he was transferred to the Intelligence Corps, where he headed a team interrogating German prisoners. When discharged from the Army, he held the rank of major.

Mr. Hayes will teach an introductory course in international relations and a course in geography, at William and Mary.

College Red Cross Group Chooses New Chairmen

Newly appointed officers and chairmen of the William and Mary Red Cross Unit are Elizabeth Mylander, treasurer; Jane Coleman, publicity chairman; Fran Moore, chairman of Camp and Hospital Committee; Frances Brown, Production chairman; Buddy Clark, chairman of the Motor Corps; and Martha Adams, chairman of Water Safety.

These girls will be installed in their offices this week and will work under Alice Peebles, new chairman of the Unit. Jerry Willard was named vice president and Jean Morgan, secretary in elections two weeks ago.

Sophomores Make Plans For Picnic, March Dance

Plans for the dance to be held on March 23 will be discussed at a meeting of the sophomore class tonight at 7:00, in Washington 100. The class picnic, which will be given sometime in the spring, will also be planned at the meeting.

H. Ledyard Towle Gives Color Course

H. Ledyard Towle is giving a Seminar in Color Techniques, called Business 326 or Fine Arts 302. The purpose of the course, according to Mr. Towle, is to show "the use of color as a unit of energy and as a specific".

This utilization is based on the relative energies of the different wave lengths in the electromagnetic spectrum. The seminar demonstrates the use of color in psychiatry, psychology, interior decoration, and in hospital therapy. It also shows color as a means of increasing production.

The color seminar meets on alternate Thursdays and is open to juniors, seniors and a limited number of others with the consent of the instructor. There are 49 in the class.

Radio Repeats Choral Music

As a result of numerous requests following the radio program of February 24 by the William and Mary Choir, station WTAR rebroadcast their program on Sunday, March 3, at 12:30 p. m.

"Since the beginning of the Spring semester, there haven't been any new members added to the choir," declared Carl A. Fehr, choir director. "The reason for this is that certain requirements have to be met by the students, and choir membership is limited to 60."

However, although membership in the choir is limited, openings are still available in the Men's Glee Club, which meets on Monday and Thursday evenings at 7:00.

In early May, there will be a combined concert of the Women's Chorus and the Men's Glee Club, which will consist of single and combined singing by the two groups. The original concert to be given by the Choir in April, has been postponed until May.

Newcomers Play In Shakespeare

Miss Althea Hunt's class in direction will present a program, When Ladies Meet, on Friday, March 8, at 2:30 p. m. in Wren Kitchen. The program will consist of scenes from Shakespeare's plays in which the dramatist's women meet.

The four members of the class will direct scenes from four plays, The Merchant of Venice, Much Ado About Nothing, Romeo and Juliet, and Twelfth Night.

Bristow Hardin is directing a scene from The Merchant of Venice with Mollie Prince playing Portia and Marianne Lewis Jones, Nerissa. Much Ado About Nothing will be directed by Phyllis Palmer with Bonny Remminger as Hero, Jane Renton as Beatrice, Marianna Merner as Ursula, and Joan LeFevre as Margaret.

Geraldine Brick as the Nurse and Jane Renton as Juliet are playing in Romeo and Juliet, directed by Clint Atkinson.

Joan LeFevre will direct Twelfth Night, the cast of which includes Mary McCarthy as Olivia, Janice Nairn as Viola, and Jill Stauf as Maria.

Miss Hunt stated that for the most part casting was deliberately done among new material of the women on campus and from recent tryouts and auditions last fall.

Ben Crowson Speaks For Pan-Americanism

Ben Crowson, graduate student at William and Mary, held an informal discussion on the subject of "Pan-Americanism", Tuesday, February 26, in Barrett living room.

The "Inter-Collegiate United Nations Organization", in which he acts in an advisory capacity, aims to further better relations between students of the world through an exchange of ideas. The chapter now being formed at William and Mary will be the first of its kind. Ben Crowson is editor of the bi-monthly newspaper printed by the organization, "The University Review of the United Nations".

The "Pan-American Student Chain", founded in Williamsburg in 1939 by Ben Crowson, is to further co-operation between students in the Americas and to gain knowledge about their activities. The purpose is to bring closer co-operation between students of this hemisphere. Several other organizations are in existence today throughout this country and in South America.

The motto of the organizations is "exclusive solely for the masses".

SPORTS

By BETTY COUMBE

As the basketball season is nearing the end, little limelight has been cast on the Dormitory League and in reality they played some of the most interesting games.

Because of intramural rulings, girls are not allowed to represent both their dorm and sorority in basketball competition, so the dormitories are forced to use only a very limited number of players—those who are non-sorority or not eligible to play for a sorority.

Of the outstanding games thus far one of the best was between Jefferson and Barrett, in which speed, predominate throughout the contest, overshadowed the faults in playing technique. Betty Mullinix and Elaine Passow ran up points against the Barrett sextet. Other court aspirants who sparked their squads during the season were: Olivia Gillespie, Brown hall; "Tommy" Smith and Betty Borenstein, Chandler; and Eggie Grant and Jane Ann Hoag, Barrett.

The pre-conceived idea on campus that the female element is to be subdued is exemplified in the Blow gym situation as regards co-ed practice. It was first arranged for the girls to use Blow Tuesday nights but after one night of occupancy Frosty Holt's squad started practicing on the appointed evening, which left the squaws exactly where they started — in Jefferson gym.

No other schedule was devised and the effect of bad practicing conditions has been felt, as witnessed by the intercollegiate results. The swimming and basketball teams have suffered most, and we would like to suggest as a remedy that out of seven days in a week one day be assigned exclusively to the co-eds for the use of Blow. Until Jefferson gym can be replaced by a larger gymnasium we believe a one to six sharing ratio fair.

The freshman varsity toppled the varsity reserves 30-23 and a mixed Chi O team won 25-18 from Jefferson in two warming up affairs before the Westhampton game last week.

Peggy Burdick announced that badminton intramurals will begin March 12 and further information will be posted.

Other members of the committee were Tom Athey, Phi Kappa Tau; Iver Brook, Pi Lambda Phi; and Bob Leonard, Sigma Pi. The rushing rules were adopted and approved unanimously by the Interfraternity Association on February 18.

Richmond Road Vets Get Loan Of Bus From Navy

Veteran's transportation between the veteran housing project on Richmond Road and the College, has recently been aided by the acquisition of a bus lent by the Navy Department.

The bus holds 30 passengers and will be scheduled for regular intervals, according to Charles J. Duke, College bursar. The loan was arranged through the courtesy of Rear Admiral W. L. Ainsworth, Fifth Naval District Commandant, and Captain R. D. Kirkpatrick, commanding officer of the Yorktown Naval Mine Depot.

Alpha Chi Leads Sororities; Jefferson Wins Dorm Title

Tri Delt and Alpha Chi racked up wins in last week's intramural play in Jefferson gym by virtue of triumphs over Chi Omega and KD respectively, by the scores of 32-27 and 34-8.

A tight Alpha Chi defense kept the Kappa Delta forwards down to three points in the first half, while the victorious trio piled up 22 markers by half-time. Betty Coumbe led the winning team by ringing up nine goals for 18 points.

In the other first team match, the favored Chi O sextet met defeat for the first time this season at the hands of Tri Delt. The game, marked by an almost impenetrable defense by the victors, was a fast and close contest throughout. Until the middle of the last quarter, there was never a difference of more than three points in the score, with Tri Delt always on top. Gerry Brown led the winners and was high scorer of the game with 13 points, while Jimmie Murphy, Chi O, was close behind with 11 markers.

In the League X, Y, Z games, Tri Delt, Pi Phi, Chi Omega, and Theta took victories over their various sorority rivals. On Monday, the Gamma Phi's second team fell before Tri Delt 21-8, with Jane Cornwall taking scoring honors with 15 points. The same evening Pi Phi's second squad gained a victory over the Thetas in a low scoring 13-8 tilt. Pris Leggett, of the losers, was high scorer with six markers.

Girl Swimmers Hold Time Trials

Suffering from the absence of captain Jackie Freer and several other regulars, nine members of the varsity swimming squad participated in open-time trials held for a nation wide Telegraphic meet. The match took place last Saturday evening in Blow pool.

Six events were included in the meet. Joyce Wilck captured the laurels for the night by taking first place in both the 100 yard and the 40' yard back stroke with the times of 1 minute 52 seconds and 34 seconds respectively. Wilck, together with Harriet Irvin and Beverly Horner, was also a member of the winning 60 yard medly relay team.

In the 40 yard breast stroke, Jo Hubbell edged out Irvin to take first place honors in 39.6 seconds, while Horner captured the 40 yard freestyle event over six competitors in 29.6 seconds. The final race was an 80 yard relay won in 53.8 seconds by the team of Penny Allenbaugh, Martha Adams, Hubbell and Horner.

"Although there was no spectacular swimming, the William and Mary coeds are a very good team", stated Dr. Caroline B. Sinclair, varsity swimming coach. The Squaws, mostly freshmen and sophomores, have been seriously handicapped by poor practicing conditions. A primary disadvantage lies in the fact that the girls are allowed to practice in Blow pool only one night a week.

W-M Chapters Of Fraternities Elect Officers

Several campus chapters of national fraternities have held informal meetings to elect officers whose positions will be affirmed as soon as the Interfraternity Association officially reactivates fraternities, according to F. E. Clark, president of the Association.

Alpha Eta Chapter of Sigma Pi held its first meeting on February 27, to reorganize the chapter and elect officers pro tempore. C. Jackson Simmons is president; Philip R. Thomas, vice president; Robert Heckel, treasurer; Garland Clarke, secretary; William Luger, publicity director and rush chairman. Garland Clarke and C. Jackson Simmons were appointed representatives to the Interfraternity Association. Pledges Ben McLaughlin, Andy Williams, Carl Zickrick, and John Daley are to be initiated in the near future.

Alpha Theta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau met several weeks ago to elect Fred Frechette president; Bob Hayne, vice president; Cary Modlin, secretary-treasurer; Tom Athey, rush chairman. Subsequent meetings will be called by the president. Phi Tau has four active members and three pledges on this campus.

Ted Bailey was elected president of Nu Chapter of Kappa Sigma; Franke Beale, vice president; Bob Merriman, secretary; Dudley Wood, treasurer. Co-rush chairmen are Howard Hyle and F. E. Clark; F. E. is also grand master of ceremonies. Guards are Frank Lane and Howard Hyle.

Epsilon Chapter of Theta Delta Chi, having six actives and three pledges on campus, elected Kemp Boot president and Frank Stevens secretary-treasurer. Theta Delt will meet tonight for an informal gathering and probable election of officers.

Virginia Gamma Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon elected officers: Walt Weaver, president; Stan Hudgins, secretary; Ed Cook, treasurer. SAE has eight brothers and nine pledges on campus.

Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, and the local Sigma Rho have held informal get-togethers but as yet have elected no officers. Kappa Alpha, Alpha Zeta Chapter, has six members and two pledges. Gamma Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha has four brothers and four pledges. Sigma Rho has eight members. Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Lambda Phi, and Phi Alpha are represented on campus by one member each.

Returning Veterans To Use Old Kappa Alpha House

College property is to be extended along the Richmond Road as far as the Church of St. Bede, announced Charles J. Duke, bursar of the College. The College has bought the Brought home, formerly rented by the campus Kappa Alpha chapter, as part of the veteran housing project.

Possession date is September 1, 1946, when between 20 and 25 men will be housed there. The College had previously bought all surrounding property except the house.

College Dance Band Shows Proficiency In Rendering Sweet and Swing

The thin wail of a clarinet, the unceasing undertone of a drum, and the clear melody of a piano echo nightly from the basement of the Music Building, drawing such on-lookers as the familiar William and Mary S. P.'s. "They need a little more practice, but they're good," said one such on-looker.

The William and Mary swing band is at practice. The group composed of 11 men on campus, and Mary Lou Strong at the piano, felt the need of a college band here, and took it upon their shoulders to start one. "We're doing our level best to get a decent band together for the Saturday night dances," said Jay Ball, the lead trumpet man. Jay played in the Army Air Corps Band for five years, and before that, with Norman Mick in Norfolk.

"O.K., let's go," shouts Bob DeForest of the famous red sweater and drums... "one-two-three!" With Pat Indence leading, the music begins. There are a few screeches and blasts, but as the practice continues, these seem to smooth out. Sweet or "jump", they can play it. Some of the standard pieces the College Band is planning to play are: Stardust, Deep Purple, Tuxedo Junction, One O'Clock Jump, Begin the Beguine, and I'll Get By.

With their shirt sleeves rolled up, and their feet constantly stamping out the rhythm, the members of the band have spent their evenings trying to get in shape to play for the dances. "We're by no means perfect and we still need lots of practice", Al Blumenthal declared, "we need more good men who I'm sure are around."

There are two trumpets, and six saxes in the brass section, with a drum, bass fiddle, and piano in the rhythm section. Most of the boys playing in the band are veterans who have just returned to William and Mary.

K O Phi Members Take Opinion Poll

Kitty Coburn and Friscilla Fuller, under the auspices of Kappa Omicron Phi, national honorary home economics fraternity, are conducting a survey of student taste in connection with the Towle Silver Company.

Each senior, after being shown sample pieces of silverware, will fill out a card indicating his choice of pattern, why Sterling silver appeals to him, and how much he would expect to pay for a 32-piece set of Sterling. This poll is made annually by the Towle Silver Company for advertising purposes.

Barbara Mitchell was initiated into Kappa Omicron Phi at a meeting on Monday, March 4.

Four Cases Of Measles Recuparate In Infirmary

Only four cases of measles have been reported to the infirmary in the past two weeks. According to Miss Annie L. Hall, head nurse of the infirmary, there is no danger of an epidemic, contrary to campus rumors. "With the coming of warm weather," said Miss Hall, "colds and sore throats are the usual ailments."

College VFW Acts As Guard

Members of the Blacknall-Chess Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars will act as special honor guard for the Churchill-Eisenhower visit to the campus of the College on Friday, March 8. Members of the Post will maintain a clear passageway for the route the party will take from the Main Gate to the President's House to the Wren Building. Henry Davis has been appointed chairman of the honor guard committee.

At the meeting of the Post on Monday night, March 4, 17 men received their obligations: John Plape, Robert Devlin, Jack Netcher, William Tudor, Calvin Portewig, William Jones, Howard Hyle, Theodore H. Bailey, Jr., Edwin F. H. Greene, Jr., Robert E. Cartwright, Ralph G. Bailey, Harry Tanzer, Richard W. Cobbs, Jr., Robert E. Massey, John M. Smith, Garland L. Issacs, and James Fitzpatrick.

Election of officers, for which nominations were made Monday, will be held at the next regularly scheduled meeting.

Professors, Students See Fine Arts Exhibit

Thomas Thorne, associate professor of fine arts; Robert Johnson, instructor in fine arts; Mary Barnhart, graduate assistant; and Ellen Irvin and Margie Oak, students majoring in fine arts, attended an exhibit of sculpture by John Flannagan in Richmond on Friday, March 1.

The exhibit was sponsored by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. The professors and students from William and Mary made the trip under the auspices of the fine arts department. They met and talked to several noted artists at a reception after the exhibit.

Eta Sigma Phi Plans Film Showing, Talk

Showing of the film "Last Days of Pompeii" at William and Mary was discussed at a business meeting of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary ancient languages fraternity, held Tuesday, March 5, in Washington 304. Harriet Phillips, president, declared, "This movie is of classical value as it gives an insight into life in Pompeii at its time." No definite date was set for the performance.

A round table discussion between faculty and students, probably on "The Real Value of Education", will be sponsored by the club in the near future.

Pan-Hel Council Adopts Early Rushing System

decision will probably be permanent.

The novel feature of next fall's early rushing will be association between freshmen, transfers, and sorority women before closed rushing instead of the former rule of no association. This is one of the two rushing rules that were changed by the Council. The revised rule now reads, "There shall be association of freshmen and transfers with sorority women until closed rushing begins, including orientation week provided two sororities are represented."

The second rule is to the effect that instead of two Pan-Hellenic mass meetings during the rushing period, there will be three. As before, there will be mass meetings on Thursday of the week preceding rush week, and on Wednesday during the week of rushing; the third meeting will be held on Saturday during the week of rushing.
